Table Tennis strokes: power, rhythm and speed combinations

LI Xiaodong

STROKE COMBINATION VS STROKE LINK

Combination: Stroke combination as I understand it is relation between one ball and the following ball. This relation can be between same kind of balls as well as between different kind of balls. The scope of combinations is very big. There are many combinations of rhythm, many combinations of power etc. Combinations can be more or less effective. I can play one ball with lot of power, the ball is coming back very fast, and if I try to play again with lot of power, it wouldn't be reasonable; usually it will not be as successful as for instance playing the next ball with medium power. An example of successful combination can be first powerful loop and then the spin loop with less power.
